Prasanna Vidya Seva Kendra

Proposed Free School with Day Meal Scheme
(A Unit of Prasanna Trust)

How often have we seen the less fortunate children moving around us aimlessly?

How often have we wondered why so many children around us are without basic necessity?

How often have we thought to ourselves - may be the only way out is to educate these children so that they don't repeat such grave error when they grow up?

How often have we thought that we should do something more than the lip service but never knew how to go about it?

The first and foremost is to have concern and sympathy for this less fortunate children.

The next step would be to genuinely feel for them with a pure intention to help them out to tide over the crisis that they are in.

Finally, the noblest thing to do on our part is to act on this understanding.

Poojya Swami Sukhabodhananda, the founder Chairman of Prasanna Trust quotes "To know and not to act on what you know is equal to not knowing".

As a part of an action plan however little it may sound a beginning has to be done to educate such children.

You will be doing a yeomen service in shaping the lives of... who knows how many.

Prasanna Trust under the guidance of Poojya Swami Sukhabodhananda has initiated a novel project of starting a value based school with day meal scheme as a step towards this direction.

Would you like to participate in the lives of such less unfortunate children particularly if they are girls who are even more deprived amongst the less unfortunate children.

50 poor girl children would be provided with value based education with day meal scheme as one unit of service named "Prasanna Vidya Seva Kendra".

The invaluable return that you would see is - watch them grow into a confident individual with a smile that spells hope for the future.

Can we reach out to you?
